

The Pandion Paper

Her Majesty, Queen Ehlana of Elenia

Azash, God of the Zemochs

THE QUEEN IS ILL

THE QUEENS CHAMPION, Sir Sparhawk, the famous Pandion knight came back from ten years of exile in Rendor to find his beloved young queen, Ehlana, incased in crystal. Ehlana, had a deadly sickness, so Sephrina and twelve Pandion knights cast a spell on her that would sustain her life for one full year.

Sparhawk just recently left on his quest to find the cure for his Queen. Our newspaper will be following his quest, reporting on his latest adventures.

For now, Primate Annias is in charge of the city, making royal decisions and acting as king.

The High Priestess of Aphrell – Lady Sephrina and Talen a youthful thief are among Sir Sparhawk's companions.

Azash
God of the Zemochs

Azash is an older god who summons evil creatures to pursue his enemies. His servant and head priest was a simple goat farmer before he gave his soul to Azash.

His main temple is in the city of Zemoch. There, inside a clay idol, which Aphrel (See below) confined him, he lives. If someone destroys that idol, he will die.

Aphrel
Goddess of Styrics

One of the only female gods, Aphrel is a young styric child. She has glossy black hair; great power and is said to have a wonderful personality, which makes her greatly loved by all she meets.

Sir Sparhawk

Sir Sparhawk – The Queen's Champion

By Sir Carneke

SIR SPARHAWK, THE Queen's Champion and a Pandion knight, is on a mission looking for a cure for her majesty, Queen Ehlana.

Sir Sparhawk is a heavy boned, tall, lean, middle aged man with black, coarse hair, a broken nose and a very wry sense of humor. He rides a bad tempered roan named 'Farran' who likes to bite, and his squire, Kurik, usually accompanies Sparhawk.

Sparhawk's family has always been the champion for the ruler of Elenia. In the twenty-fifth century, when the Zemochs invaded the kingdoms of western Eosia, at the battle near lake Randera, King Antor and Sparhawk's great ancestor, also named Sparhawk, fought back-to-back, surrounded by enemies. After holding them off for a while, Sparhawk's sword broke and he grabbed a spear, killing off men by dozens. When the enemy retreated, they discovered they had very grave wounds. Antor and Sparhawk stayed together all night, and sometime during that night, they traded weapons. Sparhawk now yielded the royal sword of Elenia, and Antor, the battle spear. Then, a Styric woman came to there aid, tending their wounds. As a symbol of their friendship, she gave them ruby rings. Since then the ruler of Elenia, and Sparhawk's desendent, who is always the champion, wear the rings. The Sparhawk of our time wears his now, and King Aldreas was buried with his, but Ehlana will probaly wear it... if she ever recovers.

Magen Tells All!

Fortune Teller Sir Magen of Ennde tell us what he sees in Elenia's future. As told by Gehan, a novice in the Pandion Order.

I sat down, in the room scheduled for our meeting, and sipped my water. He was late, so I left. Four hours later, after practicing with my sword, washing up and eating my afternoon meal, I returned. He arrived a little while after that.

"My insticns told me not to leave my house till after noon." He explained. I immediately took a dislicking for this man.

"This is how I see it," he said in a mystical voice, "Sparhawk would have an easier time walking across an ocean. Her majesty, Queen Ehlana has a deadly sickness for which there is no cure. She will die in the spring... one year from now. Prince Regent will declare himslf king, and all the western kingdoms of Eosia will make war against Elenia, all the nights of all the militant orders will fight, except that is... Sparhawk. After Ehlana's death he will go into a montesory and play, until he goes mad and kills himself."

"OUTREAGUS!" I burst, "Sparhawk is the best knight in the world - he will save Ehlana!"

"You've interepted my readings... let me try to locate the spirits again." He murmured.

"You'll never!" I roared and I beheaded him on the spot.

Who Should Rule Elenia?

By the Editor - Lord Vanion

Who should rule Elenia? Eh, is sick, someone has to take charge - should it be Prince Regent? Maybe, be someone Ehlana actually likes? Someone who would make decisions would want? Yes, it probably should but no, it isn't. I wouldn't say that th Prince, Primate Annias and 'King' Lycheas are on good terms, no, not at all. Some Earl or Duke from some p in Elenia would probably do a much finer job.

I got a letter yesterday. The writer was wondering if even Ehlana should rule? She is a lady after all, a very young one at that.

Dear Lord Vanion, Head of the Pandion Chapterhouse of Cimmura, Editor of Pandion Paper,

I didn't mind the Queens decisions. She didn't do anything I a like, but then again she didn't do anything I did like either. She's just girl after-all, why should she be the Queen? She's so weak; she can't po: keep up with the affairs of Eosia, or Elenia for that matter. I don't really care if the ruler has royal blood. I a ruler who has a good head on her shoulders.

Sincerely,
Sidoti

Cimmura

I too, don't care about royal blood, it's the brain that's my conce And, that's why I like our Queen. I believe she's a wonderful Queen wl always knows what's going on all o Eosia. I sincerely hope that there is cure for her sickness, to which Sir Sparhawk will find.

Kuriks Advice

By Kurik, Squire of Sir Sparhawk

Dear Kurik,

I lead a boring, everyday life in Demos. I get up, go to work, come home, eat and go to sleep. The next day I do the same thing every day. I want to escape somewhere, and by ship is the fastest way. But.. which way would you recommend leaving?

Sincerely,

Want to leave

Dear Want to leave,

I went on a ship to escape my wife when I was much younger. I did stupid work on a leaky vessel. I wish I never would've gone. However - I did have quite some fun running around Pelosia and Lamorkand, if you have to go, get a horse and ride off.

Sincerely,

Kurik

Dear Kurik,

This is Gator. You might know me. I work at the stables at the Pandion Chapterhouse, and there is a horse, his name is Faran. He is the most bad tempered horse I have ever seen, and he loves to bight. I believe he is Sir Sparhawk's horse, so you probably know him. How do you handle him, and do you have any tips. I'm tired of coming home with my hands bitten and in a terrible temper.

Sincerely,

Gator of Elenia

Dear Gator,

Yes, I do know you. I've heard about you from Vanion. He says you're the best with horses. But, I also know Faran. Even the best handlers have trouble with the roan. I told Sparhawk he's mean because people expect him to be mean, so he is. I know a little girl who loves Faran and expects the best from him, and in return he loves her, never bites her, and they have a wonderful time together.

God Luck,

Kurik

The Elenium - David Eddings

I loved these series. It has wonderful characters you can learn to love, and lots of surprising things, so you can never guess what happens next. Though it is sometimes confusing, and has lots of violence, I overall give it five stars.
